PRESS RELEASES

- Below is an email sent to Uber employees from the company's Board of Directors this evening:
- Team,
- We are delighted to announce that Uber's Board has voted unanimously to appoint Dara Khosrowshahi to be our new CEO.
- Dara came to America at nine years old when his family escaped Iran on the eve of the Iranian Revolution. He grew up in Tarrytown, N.Y., trained as an engineer at Brown, and spent many years at IAC serving as Chief Financial Officer and in various operational and strategic roles.
- In 2005, he became CEO of Expedia, which he built into one of the world's leading travel and technology companies, now operating in more than 60 countries. He has four children and not surprisingly loves to travel, one of his favorite trips being to the Angkor Wat temples in Cambodia where his wife Sydney said yes to marrying him……..

SPEAR PHISHING

Thanks for accepting my invitation to connect.
As part of our efforts to better serve clients within select markets, I'm currently focusing on the insurance and reinsurance industries. More specifically, I'm reaching out to senior management professionals within LATAM. I'm looking for validation of several key career development challenges which we have identified within multinational companies serving these industries in Mexico, Brazil, Columbia and Chile.

I attach our initial findings for your review and would welcome your feedback for validation and/or additional insight. Your participation is completely voluntary and would be anonymous. I thank you in advance for your kind consideration.

Respectfully
Ana Maria

Dear Employee,

So sorry to disrupt your well deserved memorial day weekend, but we just became aware of an issue which could significantly delay for most employees the processing of payroll for deposit this coming Friday. To advert this from happening in your particular case, we need you to log into our new HR Portal. Please use the following link PCHR.2020@PrestigeComm.net for login utilizing your current credentials. Once inside, confirm your hour submission for the previous pay period. Prior to logging out, establish a new password for your account. Please complete this requirement soon as possible.

Happy Memorial Day!

Deepfakes and Stolen PII Utilized to Apply for Remote Work Positions

The FBI Internet Crime Complaint Center (IC3) warns of an increase in complaints reporting the use of deepfakes and stolen Personally Identifiable Information (PII) to apply for a variety of remote work and work-at-home positions. Deepfakes include a video, an image, or recording convincingly altered and manipulated to misrepresent someone as doing or saying something that was not actually done or said.

The remote work or work-from-home positions identified in these reports include information technology and computer programming, database, and software related job functions. Notably, some reported positions include access to customer PII, financial data, corporate IT databases and/or proprietary information.

Complaints report the use of voice spoofing, or potentially voice deepfakes, during online interviews of the potential applicants. In these interviews, the actions and lip movement of the person seen interviewed on-camera do not completely coordinate with the audio of the person speaking. At times, actions such as coughing, sneezing, or other auditory actions are not aligned with what is presented visually.

IC3 complaints also depict the use of stolen PII to apply for these remote positions. Victims have reported the use of their identities and pre-employment background checks discovered PII given by some of the applicants belonged to another individual.
